HONORS TO THE DEAD

Memorial Day Is Observed All Over the World By Americans.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES

Held In All Our Possessions And In Many Cities Of the United States.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The national custom of observing May 30 as a memorial day for those who fell in the great struggle of the sixties is thirty years old today. It was in 1869 that General John A. Logan, then commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, announced May 30 as the day on which the graves of soldiers should be decorated with flowers and flags.

Before then flowers were placed on the graves of both north and south at different dates during the early spring, but a general observance of any specific day for honoring the memory of the dead was not known until the famous Illinois soldier issued his order naming May 30.

Today, for the first time in the long period since the close of the civil war, the graves of American soldiers and sailors who fell in another war are to be decorated. One year ago today the war with Spain was at its height. The battle of Manila had been fought and won, but there had been no American loss of life in actual hostilities excepting the heroic deaths of Ensign Bagley and his four comrades on the torpedo-boat Winslow.

Advices from all over the country indicate a natural revival of interest in the observance of memorial day as a result of the recent war. In all of the large cities, east and west, the day is being observed with parades and memorial exercises.

At all army posts and stations in compliance with an order of the war department, the national flag is displayed at half mast, and as a further testimonial of respect for the heroic dead all regimental bands have been ordered to play after the noon salute the dirge "Departed Days."

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 30.—In the center of the historic battlefield of Gettysburg and on the very spot where President Lincoln delivered his immortal address, representative citizens of north and south, east and west today joined in doing honor to the patriotic dead.

Several thousand people gathered on the field and in the vicinity of the grandstand whereon was gathered a distinguished company, headed by Gen. Dan Sickles, of New York, General Butterfield, who was chief of staff for General Meade, and General Longstreet, representing the confederate army.

The exercises embraced a number of addresses, poems, singing by a quartet and the customary reading of orders. The feature of the ceremonies, however, was the address of Hon. D. D. Woodmansee, of Cincinnati. His stirring address was listened to attentively by the vast audience and prolonged applause greeted his references to the absence of sectionalism and the successful outcome of the war with Spain.

KEY WEST, Fla., May 30.—Memorial day in Key West was marked by the unveiling and dedication of the monument erected in the cemetery plot where rest the remains of 24 victims of the Maine. All of the graves were decorated by the citizens of Key West with flowers and flags, the latter contributed by the Union Veteran Legion of Washington, D. C.

CHATTANOOGA, May 30.—The graves of 13,000 union soldiers and all who died at Chickamauga last summer were decorated here today.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Memorial day dawned clear and bright here, despite the adverse weather conditions which obtained yesterday both in this city and the surrounding country.

The plans for a patriotic observation of the day were the most elaborate probably in the history of the city.

In each of the three large boroughs, Manhattan, Brooklyn, and the Bronx, there were monster parades, and in Manhattan alone 20,000 men were in line.

In addition to veterans of both the civil and Spanish wars, all national guardsmen in the city as well as patriotic societies helped to swell the ranks of the marchers.

A significant incident of the parade in this city was the passing of the 7th regiment. All along the march jeers, catcalls, and hisses greeted the regiment as it passed. The Seventh, which was formerly considered New York's crack military organization, stayed at home during the Spanish-American war. The Sixty-ninth and Seventy-first regiments were cheered everywhere.

CINCINNATI, May 30.—Veterans of the Spanish war marched with veterans of the civil war today. After the parade through the city the soldiers took a special train to Spring Grove cemetery where the graves of their fallen comrades were decorated with flowers.

MANILA, May 30.—All business is suspended in Manila today in honor of the day set aside to decorate the graves of American soldiers and sailors. Flags in the city and on all war ships in the bay are at half mast.

Catholic services for the dead were held in Paco cemetery this morning, at which Father McKinnon of San Francisco conducted solemn high mass and Father McCraide preached a eulogistic sermon.

Protestant services were held in the afternoon at Battery Knoll cemetery. Chaplain Stoll, of the Montana regiment, made an invocation and Chaplain Pierce of the 14th Infantry and Greesey of the Minnesota regiment delivered orations.

Great crowds from Manila attended both services. American soldiers bearing wreaths of green and white, marched to the cemeteries with the regimental bands playing slow music. The bands also played during the services.

Following came marines, sailors from American warships Gen. Oles and his staff, and Captain Barker, temporarily in command of the squadron.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Chicago rendered her tribute to the soldiers and sailors dead today. Schools, banks, municipal government offices and almost all business houses are closed.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, May 30.—Memorial day is being observed here today for the first time in the history of Cuba. The flags on the palace and other public buildings are at half mast and all public offices are closed.

The remaining graves of American soldiers at Las Guasimas and at Guantanamo were appropriately decorated during the day.

A national salute was fired at noon by the Punta Blanca battery.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—In Arlington, the sleeping city, the nation paid a glorious tribute to its martyred dead today.

Never has decoration day been more beautifully observed.

President McKinley was the central figure in the exercises at the cemetery. The army services were held at the amphitheater, the navy services at the Lee mansion.

RHODY'S CAPITAL

Will Hereafter Not Be Two Capitals

NEWPORT, R. I., May 30.—Memorial Day 1899, will live in the history of Rhode Island as the day of the last gubernatorial inauguration witnessed in Newport.

At noon today Elisha Dyer was inaugurated governor for the third time. The inaugural ceremonies, which were preceded by a parade in which hundreds of veterans, members of civil and military organizations and jacks and marines from Admiral Sampson's fleet took part, were by far the most brilliant ever seen in Rhode Island.

The great resort of wealth and fashion seemed determined that its career as a capital city should end in a blaze of glory and the decorations of the streets and houses were elaborate in the extreme.

Simultaneous with the inauguration of the new state officials the general assembly convened in final session which will last until Friday, on which day the dual-capital system which has existed in Rhode Island for so many years to the annoyance and confusion of geography classes throughout the land, will come to an end.

YIELD NOT ONE FOOT

Of Our Territory In Alaska To the Dominion Of Canada

SAYS GEN. ANDERSON

With Our Outlying Possession the Pacific Becomes A Lake That We Can Control.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Under the direction of the war department Brig. Gen. Anderson, commanding the department of the lakes, has ordered company E, of the 7th Infantry to Alaska. The company is now stationed at Ft. Sheridan.

Gen. Anderson went to Alaska about a year ago with a force of soldiers and drove out of the territory Dominion police that had rendezvoused there, it is supposed, for the purpose of taking possession of valuable lands belonging to the United States.

So the general says the United States cannot afford to yield a foot of United States territory to Canada in this controversy over Alaska. With Skagway and Taia in our possession in the far north and by holding Manila, Honolulu, Guam and other possessions in the far east, he says the Pacific ocean becomes an American lake, the commerce of which we may control entirely.

KEEN EXCITEMENT

In Denver Over the Big Prize Fight.

DENVER, May 30.—Excitement in this city over the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight is keen. Betting is heavy but odds remain one hundred to sixty-five on Jeffries with plenty of money for the Californian.

The Colorado Athletic association opens its new arena the night of the contest, and today it arranged to send Kid McCoy to New York to report the battle and telegraph it fully by rounds as the principal attraction of the arena opening.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Sports from out of town have commenced to arrive and from now on there will be renewed interest in the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight. Current opinion seems to be that odds on Fitzsimmons will gradually dwindle and that bets will be made at even money on the night of the contest. Jeffries's admirers seem disposed to accept any odds offered by Fitzsimmons' followers.

MANILA, May 30.—The body of Captain George H. MANILA, May 30.—To Adjutant General, Washington: The cable company vessel placing a cable between Iloilo and Cebu ran to Escante, on the east coast of Negros, to remove the old cable connection. Captain Tilly, of the signal corps, accompanied the vessel and with the captain of the ship and three men he visited the town.

The natives were making friendly demonstrations. While there the men were ambushed. The captain and one man escaped to the vessel in a launch. Tilly and two men took to the water and were not rescued.

The vessel then reported at Iloilo. General Smith was informed, who immediately took 75 men and proceeded to Escante. He reports this morning that the body of Captain Tilly was found floating in the river. Marks of violence were on the head. The body was sent to Iloilo. Gen. Smith remains at Escante.

EVENING SESSIONS

Of the Court At Hillsboro Will Be Held To Hasten The Case

IMPORTANT EVIDENCE

Submitted At the Trial And The Case Begins To Grow Very Interesting.

HERALD Bureau, HILLSBORO, N. M., via Lake Valley, May 30.—It was decided yesterday by Judge Parker and the attorneys to hold day and night sessions of the court.

Yesterday Albert Fountain, Junior, was on the stand in the afternoon. His evidence corroborated most of Antonio Garcia's about the trailing of the men, and the finding of the abandoned buckboard.

Five miles beyond that point he said the charred remnants of a camp fire were found. Around the place were the footprints of several men and those of a boy of eight or nine.

Cross examined, witness could not swear as to whether the child's tracks were made by one or both feet.

This is an important point, as the prosecution will endeavor show that the child's tracks were made by men using one shoe for the purpose.

This morning the case began to grow interesting when Theodore Heman, foreman of the Lincoln county grand jury, which indicted Lee, McNew, et al, for cattle stealing took the stand.

The defense endeavored to prevent the witness from testifying that Fountain was chiefly instrumental in bringing the indictments, but the court overruled the objection.

Certified copies of the indictments were introduced as evidence.

On cross examination witness admitted the principal prosecuting witness against the defendant was Less Dow.

Barilla, the stage driver, who last saw Col. Fountain alive, was called next. He told of meeting three horsemen who veered off the road to avoid him, and of Fountain's suspicious regarding the men.

After the disappearance he found a pool of dry blood beside the road where Fountain's vehicle turned off into the brush.

The cross examination of this witness took place this afternoon.
